[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
BEDFORD CITY, VA., October 19.— Mrs. W. T. Yancey was on Thursday afternoon the gracious hostess of the Fifteen Club and other guests. The home, which is one of the handsomest and most tastefully appointed of the town, was rendered additionally attractive by some of the latest roses of summer and the splendid plants of her own raising. The hostess announced that she would conduct her guests to her picture gallery, where many famous pictures, might be seen. Grouped in frames upon the walls were a most amazing and heterogeneous collection of objects, from which must be guessed the titles of the pictures; for example, some corn shocks and a small sheaf of oats represented the famous picture of Rosa Bonheur, "The Horse Fair"; there were twenty pictures equally as puzzling.
There was a tie for guessing the largest number between Mr. J. S. Burks and Miss Sallie Wise, which was decided in favor of Mrs. Burks, who received a Christie picture prettily framed.
Refreshments were served in the beautiful dining-room, and the ladies were studies of the most elegant in combination of the aesthetic and the substantial; bright-hued nasturtiums glowed upon the tables, beneath the soft electric lights, arranged with striking effect. The menu consisted of: soups, salads, cold chicken salad in masturbation leaves, tomatoes with mayonnaise, beaten biscuit, hot turnovers and coffee, pink and white peppermints.

The weaving of woolen Dress Goods is the principal industry in Glauchau.

Thoroughness is a characteristic of the German character, and it's shown to perfection in a big assortment of NEW SUITINGS that we will show this week from a woolen mill in Glauchau that's been getting gold medals for first-class work at every World's Fair since that of

Another Look at the New China

There's enough of it in our basement department to afford you many an hour's pleasure in looking over.

Among the Dinner Sets are some of unusually thin Austrian China, beautifully and tastefully decorated.

One in particular, of 102 pieces, at $29, has a border of gold lace and flowers. Another, at $38.50, has three borders, two of a delicate green pattern, with rosebuds between.

A remarkably cheap Austrian Dinner Set is one that reached us some time ago with one piece broken in transit.

The rosebud decorations are exquisitely done, and the price is only $25.

You can't match it under $30.

We imported a lot of separate China pieces this season that, for quality and beauty, stand without a rival at the prices.

Cracker Jars and Chocolate Pots, $1 each.

Hot Cakes Plates, $1.80, $2.25 and upwards—the richest of decorations that look as if they were hand painted.

Something especially good at 30c are a lot of German China Cracker Jars and Chocolate Pots.

It's a mystery how they can be landed here to sell at such a price.

One of the novelties of the season is our assortment of Mayonnaise Dishes, Mustard Pots, Salad Bowls, Cream Pitchers, Salt and Pepper Shakers, etc., all in tomato shapes.

Fine imported China, and as dainty as you could imagine, 25c to $1.

$4.50 and upwards.

Copper Dishes, $3.98, $5 and upwards.

lain-lined, $1.50 to $5.50.

A Demonstration of Creme Elcaya

Creme Elcaya is made from a paste obtained from the leaves and buds of the elcaya, an East Indian tree noted for its perfume.

Creme Elcaya is absorbed by the skin, and is markedly beneficial in developing faded tissues. An expert saleswoman at our toilet counters will explain its advantages and how best to use it.

Our Own Importations

Our import order placed last January has just arrived from Switzerland.

The patterns are new and the prettiest in design that we've ever had.

As usual, our collection at $5 surpasses in value any Irish Curtains.

Curtains for which you usually pay $7.50 pair.

Full line of Nottingham Curtains cially good, serviceable values at $1.

Also a line of Novelty and Point Curtains, $1.50, $2 and $2.50

Renaissance and Arabian Curtains at almost any price between $4.50 and $35.

in design and complete in assortment.
